

doing co-production

A collaborative workshop to consider a shared understanding for ARC EoE members and to build relationships across themes

Facilitator: Sarah Carr
Time: Monday 13 March, 10:30 – 15:00
Venue: Online, Zoom

Title: doing co-production
Venue: online
Timing: First session 10.30-12.00 - lunch - second session 13.30 -15.00

Description: An online collaborative workshop to consider a shared understanding for ARC EoE members and to build relationships across themes, helping us all to take forward our commitment to inclusive involvement in research.

Purpose: This facilitated online workshop is organised for ARC members:

- To learn about doing co-production from the experience of working and learning together.
- To provide a safe, supported space where people from different backgrounds, with different perspectives can find practical ways of working together as equals to create something.
- To help people reflect on their own ideas, attitudes and experience of co-production in order to grow in understanding and confidence.
- To co-produce and agree on potential approaches to co-production based on the experience and learning from doing it in the workshop.
